Cohesion and Cohesive Devices

Logical Sequence

1. The supporting sentences for the topic sentence are jumbled. What should be the correct order of the supporting sentences to express a cohesive meaning?

Topic Sentence: The state of Wisconsin must make difficult policy decisions due to the recent increase in grey wolf numbers.

A. This steep rise in wolf population is now a problem for farmers because wolves have been attacking livestock.

B. Whether Wisconsin can create a policy that protects gray wolves and helps farmers satisfied is still unclear.

C. The wolf population reached 205 in 1999, and it has surged since then. Today, more than 700 gray wolves live in the northern woods of Wisconsin.

D. The numbers rose as natural causes made Wisconsin suitable for wolves. For example, the retreating glaciers formed many lakes, streams, and forests. And wolves love this habitat.

Topic Sentence: Sleep plays an important role in maintaining physical and mental well-being.

A. Consequently, many students find it difficult to concentrate in class.

B. Medical authorities suggest a minimum of seven hours of sleep at night for optimal functioning.

C. However, many university students sleep for less than the recommended hours.
D. Lack of sleep can reduce attention span and memory of the students.

2. Underline the sentence that does not belong. Suggest another sentence that would sustain the flow of the paragraph.

Recycling helps reduce the amount of waste sent to landfills. Many cities have introduced separate bins for recyclable materials. The bins come in attractive colours. As a result, more people are able to recycle paper, plastic, and glass effectively.

3. Each sentence below is grammatically accurate but does not communicate its intended meaning clearly. Rewrite the sentences so that the relationship between the words and phrases is clear and there is no ambiguity. You may rearrange the words and make small grammatical changes where necessary.

Example: The university is offering scholarships for students with excellent academic performance from rural areas.

Here, the original sentence could suggest that the academic performance comes from rural areas rather than describing the students. The following revision makes it clear that "from rural areas" describes the students:

Revised version: The university is offering scholarships for students from rural areas who have excellent academic performance.

A. Gigantic men's clothing sale begins today.

B. Local school children art exhibition opens tomorrow.

_____

C. International teachers conference starts Monday.

_____

D. New student hostel construction begins.

_____

E. This hard drive can be installed by anyone who has studied the computer manual in ten minutes.

_____

Pronoun Reference

The following pronoun misplacements can disrupt the cohesion of a paragraph:

- Ambiguous pronoun reference (unclear antecedent)
- Missing antecedent (the pronoun refers to nothing)
- Distant antecedent (the reader has to search too far back)
- Broad or vague reference (using this, that, it, they without specifying what they refer to)

1. Notice the use of the highlighted pronouns in the following paragraphs. Can you identify the antecedent of the pronouns without any ambiguity? Give reasons for your answer.

   Social media has become an important part of college life. When Priya joined her university's photography club, she encouraged Ananya to create an Instagram page for the club. She thought it would help them attract more students. The two students discussed it with their faculty coordinator, who advised them to try it for a month. This made them feel more confident about the idea. After the page attracted several hundred followers, the students decided to organise a photography competition. They promoted it online, and it received more entries than they expected. The success of the competition convinced the faculty coordinator that social media could be useful for student activities, although it also needed to be used responsibly.

   her: _____

   She: _____

   This: _____

   They: _____

2. In each of the following sentences, the pronoun-antecedent relationships are unclear. Rewrite the sentences to ensure greater clarity and eliminate miscommunication.

   Example: The student met the teacher as she wanted to discuss a few things.

   Answer: The student met the teacher as the student wanted to discuss a few things. (OR)
   The student met the teacher as the teacher wanted to discuss a few things.

   a. When Riya met Asha, she was carrying a laptop.

   _____

   b. The teacher spoke to the student after she entered the class.

   _____

   c. The manager discussed the proposal with the client because she had concerns.

Parallel Structures

Parallel structure is the use of the same grammatical pattern to express ideas that are equal in importance or function. By presenting similar ideas in a similar form, parallel structure improves readability and helps readers recognise the relationships between ideas.

Consider the following sentence: The internship helped students improve their communication skills, confidence, and become more responsible.

This sentence lacks parallel structure because the three elements following "improve" are not expressed in the same grammatical form. "Improve their communication skills," "confidence," and "become more responsible" do not follow a consistent pattern.

It should be rewritten as: The internship helped students improve their communication skills, confidence, and sense of responsibility.

1. Find and replace the parts of the following sentences that violate parallel structures. Rewrite the sentences so that they make complete sense.
   a. A good leader should be honest, patient, and show empathy.

   b. The workshop focused on developing critical thinking, improving communication, and teamwork.

      _____

   c. The committee's responsibilities include planning events, raising funds, and to coordinate volunteers.

      _____

   d. The course teaches students to analyse data, write reports, and presentation skills.

      _____

   e. The new policy aims to reduce waste, increase efficiency, and improving safety.

      _____

   f. Successful entrepreneurs are creative, showing resilience, and discipline.

2. Complete the following sentences using parallel structures:

a. Effective communicators listen carefully, ask thoughtful questions, and _____.

b. The orientation programme included campus tours, interactive workshops, and _____.

c. To prepare for the examination, students should review their notes, practise previous question papers, and _____.
